Negro Accused In Winkle Murder Also Freed By Jury In Mercer.

FIVE MORE TO BE TRIED

Bridge, by several negroes in an alleged hold-up and robbery of Winkle and Arthur Parr. Several hundred negroes were driven from the construction camp that night by white men, using sticks, clubs, fence rails and pistols.

Six negroes were arrested and indicted jointly for the murder of Winkle.

Judge Charles A. Hardin appointed two attorneys at the local bar to represent them and they asked for separate trials. Will Cooper was tried first and pronounced not guilty by a jury yesterday. Jack Johnson, Dave Sherrer, John Williams, Ernest Hobbs and Walker Chance will be tried later.

JERITZA AND GIGLIO REPORTED IN FEUD IN OPERA APPEARANCES

ended Tuesday night and the first curtain call came, Giglio appeared alone. After an embarrassed bow he disappeared. The audience continued to cheer. The curtains rose twice, but Jeritza did not appear. The applause grew more insistent. Ten minutes passed. At last Jeritza, weeping and excited, appeared before the curtain as though she had been shoved. Through her tears she tried to explain to the audience. "He's mean to me!" was all that was audible. The audience wondered.

Two weeks ago in a love scene in "Fedora," Jeritza flung herself into Giglio's arms with such violence that the tenor almost collapsed. Soon it was Giglio's turn. He became so realistic that the soprano almost landed in the footlights.

Baron Von Popper, Jeritza's husband, said after the "Tosca" performance that his wife had been "deeply offended," but he refused to name anyone. Giglio departed for the country yesterday, according to his secretary, who said:

"Besides, it was agreed upon Tuesday night by all that no one should discuss the incident. M. Giglio gave strict orders that we should say nothing—nothing."

ing the member's speech the proceedings became rather unseemly. The tact of the chairman, however, averted the further inflaming of the temper of the House, and Mr. Guiness poured oil on the troubled waters by admitting that the Prince should interest himself in internal problems, such as Mr. Kirkwood had mentioned. At the same time Mr. Guiness paid handsome tribute to the Prince's constant keenness regarding his princely duties.

Mr. Kirkwood's structures caused more laughter than indignaton, and what was considered by some of the members the only regrettable note came with insinuations from Mr. Kirkwood and others that financial interests were involved in the Prince's tour.

As an instance, George Lansbury, Labor member for the Bow and Bromley division of Poplar, said he had yet to learn that it was a function of royalty to go around the world as commercial bagmen, doing trade.

The only sort of trade the Prince of Wales seemed to have done on his American tour, Mr. Lansbury added, was the trade of amusement. He was going on his forthcoming tour, as far as the speaker could see, to have a good time. He did not grudge the Prince the trip, but it would be a standing disgrace to spend money for the trip while thousands were on the borderline of subsistence.

MERCURY DROP TO AID FLOODED AREA

Boston, Feb. 12 (AP)—Falling temperatures tonight held promise of relief from the flood situation brought about by five days of record-breaking warmth followed by heavy rains and the sudden melting of the winter snows. New England rivers were still rising tonight, but a predicted heavy freeze would check the freshets it was hoped.

SALT WATER IS FROZEN FIRST TIME

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 12 (AP)—The record cold weather of this winter froze salt water in this section heavily for the first time in the history of the weather bureau. There was ice enough to provide skating, and the fishing fleet at Gig Harbor was frozen in. Skaters skimmed around the fleet for a radius of a quarter of a mile.

The temperature was six degrees above zero, the lowest ever registered here.

Bandits Kidnap Men And Truck

Merchandise Worth $18,000 Is Taken In Hold-up At Detroit.

Detroit, Feb. 12 (AP)—An American Railway Express Company truck containing merchandise estimated to be worth between $15,000 and $18,000 was stolen in a holdup here today.

A touring car crowded the truck to the curb and four men in the machine forced John Kirk and Edward Harrington, manning the truck and H. L. Lusk, Bainsbridge, Ohio, an express messenger, to get into the touring car. A fifth man then drove the truck away.

den finding of Collins. He said Collins' tomb would be unsealed and that someone would then determine whether the victim was dead or alive.

Official figures given out this afternoon gave the depth of the shaft at forty-seven feet on the lower side and fifty-two feet on the upper side of the steep incline at the mouth of the shaft.

"Collins" Held In Kansas.

Haddam, Kan., Feb. 12 (AP)—A man who sent a telegram to Cave City, Ky., yesterday, saying he was Floyd Collins, was held here today on a charge of vagrancy until more may be learned about him. He does not resemble photographs of the man whom miners are striving to rescue from a rocky crevice in Sand Cave. He seemed confused by questioning today. He said he was 25 years old. Collins is said to be older.

Editor Gets Warrant.

Washington, Kan., Feb. 12 (AP)—A warrant charging the obtaining of money under false pretenses was sworn out today by Sam Clarke, editor of the Washington Palladium, a weekly newspaper, against the man who appeared yesterday at Haddam and claimed to be Floyd Collins.

Clarke said he gave "Collins" $50 cash for the exclusive privilege of his story as a news feature after the stranger had made an affidavit before a notary that he was the original Collins.

DEFICIT OF GRAIN POOL TO BE PAID

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—The $300,000 indebtedness of the United States Grain Growers, Inc., will be liquidated through an agreement with the newly formed Grain Marketing Company, Eugene Funk of Bloomington, Ill., who has been mentioned as President Coolidge's selection as Secretary of Agriculture and who represented the Grain Marketing Company in negotiating the agreement, announced here today.

The contract provides Grain Growers members with the co-operative marketing privileges of the Grain Marketing Company.

EXPLORER SPIRITED TO INDIA, IS CLAIM

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—A weird tale that Dr. Herschel C. Parker, explorer and former professor at Columbia, who proved that Dr. Frederick A. Cook was a faker in his claims of having climbed Mount McKinley, has been hypnotized by a swami and used to further anti-British propaganda in India, has been told in court here.

The story was told at the hearing of the divorce action brought by Mrs. Evelyn Naegele Parker. She said that her husband had been missing since 1919 and that every effort to locate him had failed.

$40,000,000 RIVERS FUND BILL IS SIGNED

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—President Coolidge today signed the army appropriation bill, carrying $330,180,000. In addition to providing for the regular military establishment, the National Guard and organized reserve, the bill provides $40,000,000 for continuation of river and harbor projects, $10,000,000 for flood control work on the Mississippi, $750,000 for the Panama Canal and $25,000 for experiments with gas to exterminate the boll weevil.

FLOYD'S TEACHER LIVES IN GRAVES

Mayfield Rural Route Carrier Sure Trapped Man Was Formerly His Pupil.

FATHER'S NAME SIMILAR

Special to The Courier-Journal.

Mayfield, Ky., Feb. 12.—Floyd Collins' first school teacher lives in Mayfield, it was learned today. When H. T. Durbin, rural mail carrier of this city, told The Courier-Journal correspondent that he taught a Floyd Collins at the Mammoth Cave School twenty-six years ago.

Durbin, while not sure that this is the same Floyd Collins who entered the first grade at his school, said that the boy's father's name was Lee Collins and that he had a sister named Annie Collins. He said that the trapped man's age also corresponded with the age of the boy he taught at the school.

Mr. Durbin did not remember any of the brothers but he is almost sure from all descriptions, that Floyd Collins is the lad he taught at Mammoth Cave.

Durbin's wife is a cousin of the trapped man, according to Mr. Durbin.

CREVICE FOUND IN CAVE SHAFT

Workers Say 6 Hours May Bring Them to Collins' Trap In Rock.

there is a cavern below. It will show as clearly as an X-ray photograph what is just ahead.

Collins' fate would perhaps, have been known early tonight but for ill luck in the shaft, when lumber for the fifteen set of timbers, indicating a depth of more than fifty feet, was sent into the pit, a wall collapsed — a hindrance which disappointed the workmen and those in charge. The entire afternoon was lost in clearing out loose rock and dirt. At 6 o'clock the timbers were reported in place.

The diamond core drill was started immediately and after passing through four feet of rock, and muck struck limestone. The drill bores fifteen feet an hour through the soft rock or dirt but the limestone will reduce the speed to five feet an hour, Mr. Carmichael said.

Crevice In Shaft.

Interest among workmen is centered on a large crevice which leads back from one of the walls of the shaft, near the bottom. This possibility will not be overlooked. It is possible to see ten or fifteen feet back into the crevice, which is large enough for a small man to enter, it is reported.

Everywhere is the feeling that a turn in the long road is just ahead, some are of the opinion that Collins is dead, after his thirteenth day of suffering in a winding passage far back in Sand Cave, held fast by a large rock.

The Red Cross nurses and Dr. William Hazlett, however, are standing ready at all times to do for Floyd Collins everything science can.

"He may be alive," they say, and as long as there is a bare chance the twenty-four a day vigil will continue.

NOW DOWN FIFTY-TWO FEET.

Workers May Tunnel Around Rock Roof of Cave.

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 12 (AP)—Officials in charge of operations at Sand Cave, where Floyd Collins has been imprisoned for more than thirteen days, late today began drilling a test hole within the shaft now being dug toward the passageway to the cave.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning Collins will have been in the cave two weeks, and without food or water for eight days. The last time his voice was heard was more than a week ago, and whether he was dead or alive tonight, was a matter of conjecture.

H. T. Carmichael, in charge of the work at the shaft, late today made it known that it was his intention to undertake to go around, rather than through, the cap rock of Sand Cave, unless a natural fissure was unexpectedly disclosed.

When the miners have put in another section or two of timbering, piling them will be driven in and the workers will begin tunneling in an attempt to reach the natural crevice, probably between Collins and the "squeeze," which closed the passageway last week. The workers may have to dig straight down from the tunnel to accomplish this, it was said.

LINCOLN'S AID IS IN HIS 90TH YEAR

Special to The Courier-Journal.

Madison, N. J., Feb. 12.—William O. Stoddard, author and inventor, who was secretary to President Lincoln from 1861 to 1864, spent today quietly in his home here. As Mr. Stoddard is in his ninetieth year, it was said his family thought it inadvisable to permit him to be interviewed.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO SURVEY MAMMOTH CAVE WITHOUT DEBATE

tions of those supporting the claim of Kentucky's Natural Wonder for designation as one of the National Park show places of the East.

Initial success was met when President Coolidge assured members of the Kentucky congressional delegation that he would not object to an allotment of $5,000 for examination of the Cave region.

The delegation had informed him that the Southern Appalachian commission, which recently urged selection of the Shenandoah site for a National Park, had not visited Mammoth Cave and that a survey of the Kentucky region would demonstrate its availability.

The President thus paved the way for inclusion of the appropriation in the plans of the director of the buget.

HUGHES ASKS FOR REIGN OF REASON

Secretary Denounces Trouble-stirring 'Patriots' In Dinner Address.

DEFENDS SUPREME COURT

ble as they are in getting us into trouble; if we could sound the note, not of an ignoble pacificism or of a truculent chauvism, but of a noble reasonableness we should be thrice armed and be secure in a just influence to which no one could set bounds."

Constant Emphasis Needed.

The secretary found that "constant emphasis on study, serenity and reasonableness" were needed "as the essential qualifications for successful democracy," and he answered the "disturbers of our peace" who say they desire security, liberty, opportunity and justice.

"After every allowance is made for abuses and for the regrettable conditions which every lover of mankind must desire to remedy," said Mr. Hughes, "it still remains true that nowhere is labor better circumstanced or rewarded, nowhere is there such a high standard of living or so many comforts enjoyed by almost the entire population.

"It still remains true that we have on every hand groups studying conditions, diffusing knowledge, creating a better social hygiene. The only serious threat to labor in this country is the threat of political instability and of the impoverishment which would come from the destruction of the confidence which is the vital breath of enterprise."

Should Begin At Home.

Asserting that "the first lesson in civics is that efficient government should begin at home," Mr. Hughes said:

"If the citizens of New York City have not sufficient civic interest and organizing ability to meet adequately their own obvious needs, it is with poor grace that they criticize lost motion in Washington. The trouble is not with our system, but in applying the power that is going to waste.

"In the recent campaign the attention of our people was focused on our institutions, especially our judicial institutions. We have nothing better than our Supreme Court and our people intend to protect it against the attacks of demagogues. It does not need, as some think, to be popularized.

"The test of the Nation's safety and the measure of its capacity for progress, the Secretary said, "in our temper, in the reasonableness which enables us to work together and to get results."

More In Evidence.

"I am happy to think," he added, "that this quality is more in evidence than formerly. It is more conspicuous in the press. I do not wish to charge our friends of the press with an undue reticence or an excessive sobriety of statement, but the rancor of an earlier day has largely disappeared.

"But the best evidence of the growth in the grace of reasonableness is shown by the futility of the extravagances of vituperative politics. These assaults are not numerous on the platform and in the press, to say nothing of more privileged places. But while they attract much attention they do little damage because our people are increasingly disgusted with that sort of thing. At the last election, they voted on that proposition."

Mr. Hughes found that the greatest difficulty "in an age of fleeting observations" was not so much the task of informing the public "as to make the information stick."

230 WORKERS KILLED AFTER EXPLOSIONS IN GERMAN SHAFTS

The same gas met the men who were digging in frantic effort to save any of their comrades who might remain alive. Two of these rescuers were added to the list of fatalities. They were caught in a gas-filled gallery and died before they could escape into the open air.

Already eight bodies have been brought up to the little village of Kirdorf, where nearly all the victims lived. Thirty or forty more have been exhumed and still lie in the shaft. All hope of any of the others being alive underground has been abandoned. Most of the dead are unrecognizable, crushed and burned and blackened.

Tonight, standing in the glare of the cluster of lights at the shaft-head, the relatives and friends of the dead wait in the hope of identifying their own. A little apart from these tragic figures a great group of workers of the Ruhr have gathered muttering curses on the fate and the employers who permitted the accident to occur.

"The Minister Stein mine is the property of the Hugo Stinnes estate and lies in the heart of the most Communistic section of the radical Ruhr. All lay the chief guilt for the explosion on the employers.

"Stinnes doesn't care; there are plenty more of us to get him his coal," one woman shrieked through the darkness, and in low mutters the men agreed.

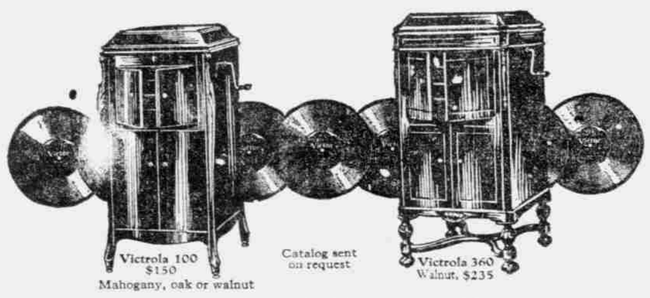

A little removed from this threatening talk is the improvised hospital where the few men who escaped are being cared for along with many of the rescue workers who were overcome by gas. Here, too, extra doctors and nurses wait in the vain hope that some shred of life may yet survive in the men still entombed.

The accident, the worst in years, with the exception of that in 1909, when 341 lives were lost not far from here, has aroused the sympathy of all Germany. Chancellor Luther, who was to have delivered a speech at Karlsruhe tonight, cancelled the engagement and is hurrying to Essen to see what the Government can do.
